THE WAY TOWARDS A SUSTAINABLE FUTURE

ABOUT US

RWEA (Romanian Wind Energy Association) is a non-profit organization launched in 2008 and actively involved in national and international energy policy, regulatory dialogue and analysis on the expansion of renewable energy sources, being the voice of energy transition and wind energy industry in Romania.

Through information campaigns, conferences, workshops, research initiatives and cooperation with national and international organizations designed to facilitate the exchange of knowledge, policies and technical developments, RWEA aims to raise awareness of the benefits of wind energy as a source of renewable energy.

MISSION

RWEA believes that a sustainable energy future based on renewable, clean and competitive technologies can be made possible through the use of wind energy - a solid pillar for a growing economy and a modern society.

PROJECTS

In order to contribute to a relevant energy transition, RWEA is constantly launching projects that support renewable energy development. Among the most important ones there are annual studies on industry profitability, the Code of good practice for the renewable industry in Romania, studies on national targets for the development of new renewable energy capacities for 2030, technical studies on NES, Reskilling Academy (a training project and professional reconversion for people from the regions affected by the energy transition) and events that aim to promote and support the development of wind industry in Romania (RESInvest in Romania, Energy Transition, Wind Open Day).

HOW CAN YOU BECOME A RWEA MEMBER?

If you intend to become one of Romania's energy transition voices and you believe in the progress of the wind energy industry, then RWEA is the place where your plans turn into concrete actions. For more information on how you can join the association, access www.rwea.ro.
